

K - 3rd Grade Discussion

Fun “getting the wiggles out” activity

SUPPLIES:

- No supplies needed

HOW-TO:

1. Play a good 'ol ashion game of leap frog
2. Here's how to play (incase you're unsure):
 - Someone goes first. This person will crouch down on the floor, being sure to tuck in their head and feet.
 - Next, a new person will leap over the first player. The leaper will use their hands against the crouching persons back to push themselves over the person, straddling their legs wide apart on each side.
 - Upon landing, this person immediately crouches into the frog position so that the third person must now leap over two crouching people. This player then resumes the crouching position for the fourth person to leap over (play until everyone in your family gets a turn)
 - Once it reaches the person who crouched first, be sure and give them a chance to leap as well.
 - Change order and play again if you want!

Bottom Line Review:

SUPPLIES:

- No supplies needed

HOW-TO:

Talk to your kids about how it's easy to let things go sometimes and forgive—and other times it's REALLY hard!

- Ask them to tell you if they can think of a time when someone really hurt their feelings or made them mad.
- Now, ask them if that person ever said they were sorry.
- Explain that it's really hard sometimes to forgive others especially when they never even say they are sorry and sometimes even when they do!
- But God wants us to forgive others just like he forgave us! [Bottom Line] Forgive others because you have been forgiven.

SCENARIOS:

- You lost one of your mother's favourite earrings, and she forgave you. Then you refused to forgive your sister for losing one of your toys! God wants you to . . . [Forgive because you have been forgiven.]

- Your dad has forgiven you for breaking his phone, but you refused to forgive your friend at school for breaking your pencil. The right thing to do is . . . [Forgive because you have been forgiven.]
- God forgave you once and for all, but you have a hard time forgiving your brother for hurting your feelings. What should you choose to do? [Forgive because you have been forgiven.]
- A friend says something that really embarrasses you at school. What does God want you to do? [Forgive because you have been forgiven.]
- Your mom blamed you for something that wasn't your fault. She totally realized it later and apologized. It really made you mad but you decided to . . . [Forgive because you have been forgiven.]
- Your buddy pushes you down on the playground at school. It was an accident, but he doesn't even say he's sorry. What should you do even though it's hard? [Forgive because you have been forgiven.]
